

JK Global Opportunities Fund

January 2021

USD Class +2.69%, GBP Class +2.54%, YEN Class +2.61%, EUR Class +2.64% in January.

The Fund rose +2.69% (USD Class, net of fees) in January, as the outperformance of Asian markets last month benefited our increased tilt towards the region recently. Meituan was a significant contributor to returns, as well as our Asian semiconductor counters (Will Semiconductor, Nan Ya PCB, TSMC), and 'Green Energy' holdings (Longi, Ballard Power, Samsung SDI). Nimble profit-taking in Bitcoin and our short US bond position also added to gains.

Markets started this year on a strong footing, seemingly building on the optimism that was emerging towards the end of last year. As mentioned in our previous report, this upbeat mood is primarily being driven by expectations for a vaccine-led return to economic normalcy amid ongoing policy support, which helped drive a sentiment-based rally for the majority of last month. However, this was upended in the last few days by an army of retail traders buying shares in heavily shorted companies, such as GameStop, forcing some aggressive portfolio de-grossing in the hedge fund community. January 27th saw the highest de-grossing flow since Sep '16 and the worst day of hedge fund alpha on record, driven by a squeeze of concentrated shorts and a sell-off in crowded longs.

We continue to feel that the best way to play markets currently is by employing a dynamic, opportunistic approach to asset and stock selection, given that our technical models suggest markets are approaching levels usually associated with some sort of near-term correction. Modest stock price reactions to impressive earnings numbers recently, heightened retail participation, and the general level of optimism amongst investors are other reasons to warrant caution in our view.

Whilst it is hard to pinpoint the exact catalyst for a correction, we are mindful of a number of concerning developments, namely the emergence of new COVID strains, waning liquidity, China/Taiwan tensions and a growing wave of populism/civil unrest. A tightening of financial conditions from a potential inflation surprise is also a continued source of concern.

Having said all this, we are still finding interesting opportunities at the stock level. In particular, we like companies geared into exciting structural demand stories (Electric Vehicles, Renewable Energy, 5G, etc...), especially those which operate in oligopolies with high entry barriers. The current supply shortage in a number of high-tech chip and solar components is a function of these supply-side dynamics and is shifting significant pricing power to companies across these value chains. We believe JK's expertise in identifying the technology leaders in these spaces will continue to bear fruit for our investors.

To summarise, whilst we believe markets appear stretched on an aggregate basis and may be due a near-term pull-back, we remain engaged with certain 'themes' at the individual stock level. In light of this, we feel that the best approach is to limit net exposures whilst opportunistically adding to secular growth names that may be less sensitive to any market-wide sell-off. For example, we have been adding to Ceres Power - a hydrogen fuel-cell producer - after its recent correction. We would also add that any market sell-off will be used as an opportunity to increase net exposures, in our belief that we are still in a longer-term equity bull market.

JK Global Opportunities Fund is a weekly dealing UCITS fund. It can be held by ISA's, SIPP's, Pensions, Charities, Family Offices, Endowments, as a direct holding or through a Private Wealth Manager. All classes have UK Reporting Status.
