July 2019

USD Class -0.08%, GBP Class -0.32%, YEN Class -0.27%, EUR Class -0.22% in July.

The Fund was little changed during the month. This relative calm has not extended through to August though, as we find ourselves once again dealing with an escalation in many of the outstanding geopolitical issues, namely Trump and China, the ongoing protests in Hong Kong, deteriorating relations between Japan and South Korea, and Italy and the EU. Volatility has jumped, and investors have become very skittish once again, and we can't blame them.

We have been getting increasingly concerned about the global economic deterioration we are witnessing, which in turn has reignited monetary easing expectations, and driven a big further rally in global bond prices. Corporate earnings have been affected by this slowdown, but not to any significant degree which is encouraging, and equities have remained reasonably resilient, although this might be about to end. Clearly relations between the U.S. and China are deteriorating once again, with increased tariff threats on the U.S. side being countered with a weakening Chinese currency and threats of rare earth supply restrictions. Both sides look like they are 'digging-in' and thus it is difficult to be optimistic on any settlement being reached in the near term. This will result in further economic deterioration, and further pressurise earnings.

We expect Beijing to continue to employ the currency as a tool in this ongoing trade/technology 'war', although we do not believe that there will be any large scale devaluation, given Beijing's desire to internationalise the currency and thereby create an alternative to the US Dollar. However, risks look asymmetric to us, and thus we remain short the RMB.

The Hong Kong situation is a tougher one to gauge, but the longer it goes on – without wishing to state the obvious - the greater the risk to Hong Kong as a business and financial hub. The equity market there is acting poorly, and we have cut exposures entirely. Beijing is playing things reasonably cool for the time being, but our sense is that if these protests morph into something more akin to a demand for outright independence, then things could deteriorate rapidly.

Turning to Europe, the economic data continues to deteriorate markedly, particularly in Germany. Our concern is such that we have initiated a short position in DAX futures, as the corporate sector is beset with bad news, and their financial system is a mess - in particular Deutsche Bank. If Trump turns his attention on Germany and its trade surplus with the US then things could get really tricky. Germany has benefitted for years from an undervalued EURO and one senses it is only a matter of time before Trump makes this an issue.

As at the time of writing, and in light of the issues raised above, we have reduced equity exposures meaningfully during August, particularly in Asia. We have continued to add to the Fund's gold position, and short-term have initiated a long position in US bonds. The Fund remains long the US Dollar and Japanese YEN, and short the RMB, Korean Won, and Sterling. Risks look too high and rewards too limited to be placing big bets for the time being.

JK Global Opportunities Fund is a weekly dealing UCITS fund. It can be held by ISA's, SIPP's, Pensions, Charities, Family Offices, Endowments, as a direct holding or through a Private Wealth Manager. All classes have UK Reporting Status.
